STRAIGHT TALK FROM RESTAURANTEER ON SMALL FLIES Round Table Discussion Brings Pest Issues in a Commercial Kitchen to Light

Knoxville, TN, January 3, 2019— Nisus Corporation publishes a candid round table discussion that offers insight into bad pest control company behavior, learning what is needed to land (and keep) commercial accounts and the brutal honesty with clients that may be required to really get rid of a bad small fly issue. The video can be found on YouTube at <https://youtu.be/PXiMfuhnOWw>.

Frustrated and faced with a particularly difficult small fly problem in his commercial kitchen that no pest company was able to solve, Jason Withers of Atrias Restaurant turned to Michael Spiroff of Tri-State Exterminating to help gain control. This video covers why this particular situation was so difficult, what made Tri-State Exterminating different as a pest control company and why their small fly program worked to eradicate the small flies plaguing Atrias when others did not.

Nisus Corporation provides sustainable pest control and wood preservative products to industry professionals while providing the lowest possible impact to the environment from its headquarters in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains in Rockford, Tennessee. Nisus has experienced rapid growth since its beginning in 1990 and distributes more than 30 products to eight different industries across the United States and in seven international markets. With proactive planning and technical expertise, Nisus is poised to continue its leadership role in sustainable pest control and wood preservation.
